

Friday June 20, 2008

New Spears Baby Already Pregnant

LOS ANGELES, CA- Zoe 101 star Jamie Lynn Spears, who caused quite a stir last year when she became pregnant at sixteen, gave birth to a daughter Maddie on Wednesday. Her publicist reports that both mother and child are healthy and happy, though there have been some complications. During a routine exam, physicians discovered that the infant is apparently pregnant.

"I can't say for sure how any of this happened," said obstetrician Dr. Jess Tashan. "Hell, until this morning I would have said that this wasn't physically possible. There is one thing we do know, however: not even the laws of nature can stand up to the unrelenting fertility of the Spears girls."

As surprising as this development may seem, there are some who have been counting on this eventuality, though perhaps not this soon. In Las Vegas, betting on when the new Spears child would become pregnant has focused on the ages of 14 through 16. No one, not even the professionals, had any idea that Maddie would outperform the spread by that much- which goes to show that the old maxim still holds true: when it comes to gambling on the virtue of a member of the Spears family, bet the under.

While some applaud Maddie's courage, the life of a single mother is no walk in the park. She will have to make a seemingly endless series of sacrifices to raise this child who, after all, will only be nine months younger than herself. For example in a few years, she may have to adjust her preschool schedule to avoid being late in picking up her child from preschool. She may also have to forgo play dating until after the baby is asleep. And as the only pregnant infant in her nursery, she will no doubt be ostracized.

In spite of these obstacles, sudden great-grandmother Lynne Spears remains optimistic about the future for her child, her child's child, and her child's child's child. In other words, her people are working on a way to transform this medical oddity into a reality show and book deal.

At a tandem baby shower for both Jamie Lynn and her new daughter, the Spears matriarch insisted that Maddie's history-making pregnancy isn't just setting an example for young girls everywhere, she's also setting a trend. And she is absolutely correct. Thanks to movies like Juno as well as contributions of the Spears clan, teen pregnancy is hotter than ever. This summer, fetuses are the ultimate must-have accessory.

Ten years ago, a mother would have moved heaven and earth to prevent her daughter from becoming pregnant before the age of 19 or 20, but times change. These days, with babies at the top of every girl's wish list, helicopter parents are going out of their way to secure fertilization before their junior year in high school. Last spring every girl wanted a convertible and a driver's license when they turned sixteen. This year, it's all about a mini-vans and a maternity prom dresses.

"Our little Kenedee is going to be a great mom," said 39 year old Ivana Tenshon. "More importantly, I'm going to be a grandmother while I'm still relatively young and hot. Pregnancy is what she's always wanted- all the trendy magazines say so. Right now we're planning a combination sweet 16 party and baby shower. It's going to be off the hook."
- staff@ridiculopathy.com staff

Related Stories

Brit to Lose Kids Until She's Hot Again

Judge Grants Custody of Britney's Sons to TMZ.com

Britney Spears Asks Public to Stop Ogling Her Boobs and Concentrate on Her Vagina

Spears Ordered to Undergo Random Dance Testing